

SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM AND MASS COMMUNICATIONS

The W. Page Pitt School of Journalism and Mass Communications' programs and curriculum are based in the conviction that future journalists and mass communicators are best prepared for life and for their careers when they are broadly educated in the liberal arts. The importance of preparing them for the demands of the workplace and an industry that experiences change rapidly is recognized as well.

Knowledge and skills essential to success in journalism and mass communications are emphasized, with the aim of preparing students for full participation, including leadership, in their professions. In addition, the school's program seeks to promote knowledge and awareness about mass communications among students who do not intend to pursue careers in one of the mass communications fields.

Students in journalism and mass communications majors will learn

1. how to gather, write, edit, package, and present information and entertainment in a multimedia context;
2. how the field of mass communications changes and evolves and how to adapt accordingly;
3. how to make responsible and effective decisions; and
4. the roles, effects, and impacts of mass communications in society.

The school offers a Bachelor of Arts degree in three majors:

- advertising/public relations, with emphases in advertising or public relations;
- journalism, with emphases in broadcast, multimedia, or sports;
- media production, with emphases in radio/television production and management or in video production.

Professionally oriented courses and laboratory experiences are combined with extensive liberal arts preparation to provide students with the background necessary for employment in mass communications. The program is accredited by the Accrediting Council on Education in Journalism and Mass Communications.

Of the 120 credit hours required for the bachelor's degree, students must have a minimum of 72 non-journalism hours and 48 journalism and mass communications hours, and they must meet the liberal arts and sciences requirements of the university.

Majors must also satisfy the following requirements:

1. Students must have typing keyboard proficiency for many JMC courses.
2. Students must pass a language proficiency exam, or pass JMC 100 Fund Jrn Writing & Edit with a C or better, or pass JMC 103 Language Use for Media with a CR, or have an ACT verbal score of 30 or better or SAT verbal scores of 650 or better, for graduation and before admission to any 300/400 level JMC courses.
3. A minimum Grade Point Average of 2.25 in required journalism and mass communications courses and a 2.25 overall is required for graduation.

4. A student who receives a D or F in a journalism and mass communications course counted toward graduation must repeat it and earn at least a C before graduation or before using that course as a prerequisite for another required journalism and mass communications course.
5. At least 42 hours of credit toward the B.A. must be in courses numbered 300-499. Courses transferred from two-year or community colleges cannot be used to satisfy this requirement. Courses taken at four-year accredited colleges transfer at the level at which they were taken.
6. Graduating seniors are required to submit for review by faculty a portfolio of selected works they have completed in the program. Students should consult with their advisers for specific guidelines on portfolio development.

Transfer Students

Because of the standards of the school's accrediting body, students transferring into the school from two-year institutions are restricted to using 12 hours of transfer credit in journalism and mass communications toward the 120 credit hours required for the B.A. Further, the transferred JMC hours must be at the 100 and 200 levels, with the exception of JMC 330 AD-PR Principles and Ethics.

Transfer students, including those transferring from other units at Marshall, must have a 2.0 (C) average and no academic deficiencies in math and English.

Minors

Non-Journalism and Mass Communications majors may select from one of four, 15-hour minors within the school as follows:

- Advertising
- Journalism
- Public Relations
- Media Studies

Regents, B.A.

Students in the Regents B.A. program are allowed no more than 12 hours of journalism and mass communications credit through presentation of a portfolio. If a student did not receive portfolio credit for particular journalism courses, he or she may register for them and receive credit upon successful completion of course requirements.
